1. Radar's Red Light, Green Light!

Objective: To be the first to tag Radar!

One person is “Radar the Police Car” and the rest are trying to tag him/her. At the start, all the children form a line about 15 steps away from Radar. Radar faces away from the line of kids and says “Green Light”. At this Point the kids are allowed to move towards Radar. At any point, Radar may say “Red Light!” and turn around. If any of the kids are caught moving after this has occurred, they are out. Play resumes when Radar turns back around and says “green light”. Radar wins if all the kids are out before anyone is able to tag him/her. Otherwise, the first player to tag Radar wins the game and earns the right to be “Radar the Police Car” for the next game.

2. Radar Vs. The Badger Brothers

Objective: Radar's Team must protect the water balloons from being taken by The Badger Team!

Divide players into two teams - Radar's Team and The Badger Team. Set up a “jail” on one side of the yard and a “bank” on the other side of the yard. In the bank, place a bowl or basket of 10 water balloons. Also set up a spot to be the Badger Team hide-out (and no Radar Team members are allowed in the hide-out). The objective is for Radar's Team to protect the water balloons. The Badgers must take as many of the water balloons to their hide-out (without breaking them) and without being caught by Radar's Team. Radar's Team may catch a Badger by tagging him and then taking him to jail. Radar's Team must actually take them to the jail. Once in jail the Badger can only be freed if another Badger tags him/her. After one game switch it up and let Radar's Team and The Badgers trade places.

Needed to play: Water, Balloons (please have an adult assist with filling the balloons with water)

3. Water Brigade

Objective: To transport water from one bucket to another using only cups faster than the other team!

To form a water brigade to transport water from one bucket to another bucket. Each team needs two buckets: one full of water and the other empty. The empty bucket should be smaller than the full bucket to account for spilled water. Each team will line up between their two buckets. Each child holds their own small cup. Each child nearest their full bucket dips their cup in the water and pours it into the next child's cup. The water continues down the line being poured from one cup to the next. The child closest to the empty bucket pours their cup into it and races to the opposite end near the full bucket. The players then dip their cup in the full bucket to begin the brigade again. This keeps the children moving and gives everyone the chance to be first in line. The first team to fill the empty bucket wins.

Needed to play: Water, two buckets (one smaller than the other), small cups

4. Sponge Relay

Objective: To be the first team to fill up the empty bucket by transporting water by a sponge!

Like the water brigade relay, each team needs an empty bucket at the far end of the field and a full bucket near the starting line. The first player on each team dips a sponge in the bucket and races to the opposite end of the playing field. He/she squeezes the water from the sponge into an empty bucket before returning to the starting line and passing on the sponge to the next player. The players take turns repeating the process, racing to be the first team to fill the empty bucket.

Needed to play: Water, two buckets (one smaller than the other), sponges
